- What led RCPD/KSU down the path to PJ?
- What is Procedural Justice (PJ)?
- How was PJ applied to a traffic safety initiative called Operation ARC?
- How were officers trained for this initiative?
- What were the preliminary results of the initiative?

THE PROBLEM

- You are the Patrol Commander for a 100 officer agency in a college town in the Midwest.
- Your agency has successfully deployed a number of initiatives with public support.
- However a traffic safety initiative based on DDACTS was rejected by the public.
- Since this time the agency has not had a traffic safety initiative. The Department's oversight board has recently rejected a grant funded seatbelt enforcement campaign.
- Accidents are relatively low, but vary significantly by season, especially injury accidents.

- Population 56,308
- Area 19.2 sq miles
- 83.5% white
- Median HH income $43,104
- 26.2% persons in poverty
- State university, military post, level IV research facility. commercial/social hub

- Consolidated 1974

 - 98 civilian employees

Critical Elements of Operation ARC

- ▶ Top 5 things people think RCPD should focus on:
- ▶ 1. Impaired driving
- ▶ 2. Speeding (esp. school zones)
- ▶ 3. Distracted driving (esp. phones and texting)
- ▶ 4. Failure to stop (stop signs AND red lights)
- ▶ 5. Tailgating (F-T-C)

BUILD A TRAINING PROGRAM

- Introduction to PJ and Police Legitimacy
 - Esp. the four elements
- Critical Elements of Operation ARC
 - Review of traffic accident data
 - Review of the Australian Experiment (QCET)
 - Strong focus on scripting (officer's voice)
 - 90 second Rule
 - Compliance Checks (supervisors)

- Define an ARC Stop
 - Big 5 violation
 - Use their script
 - Sincere (Verbal Judo Issue)
- Mark the citation/warning as ARC

- They decided how many citations to write and what kind (e.g. warnings v. citations).
- Low accident numbers/promise to law board
- They wrote their own scripts
- They decided when to make non-traffic safety stops

Creating Your Own ARC Script

▶ VOICE:

- Voice/Participation are reinforced whenever you mention public expectations.
 - The goal is to give the driver “voice” through the explanation of the survey, NOT by creating a roadside debate.

Creating Your Own ARC Script

- ▶ TRUSTWORTHY MOTIVES:
 - This is emphasized when you mention that we are trying to reduce accidents and the violation you stopped them for is known to cause accidents.

Creating Your Own ARC Script

▶ NEUTRALITY:

- This is emphasized when you mention your supervisor expects/assigned you to make traffic safety stops.
- Focused on behavior

Creating Your Own ARC Script

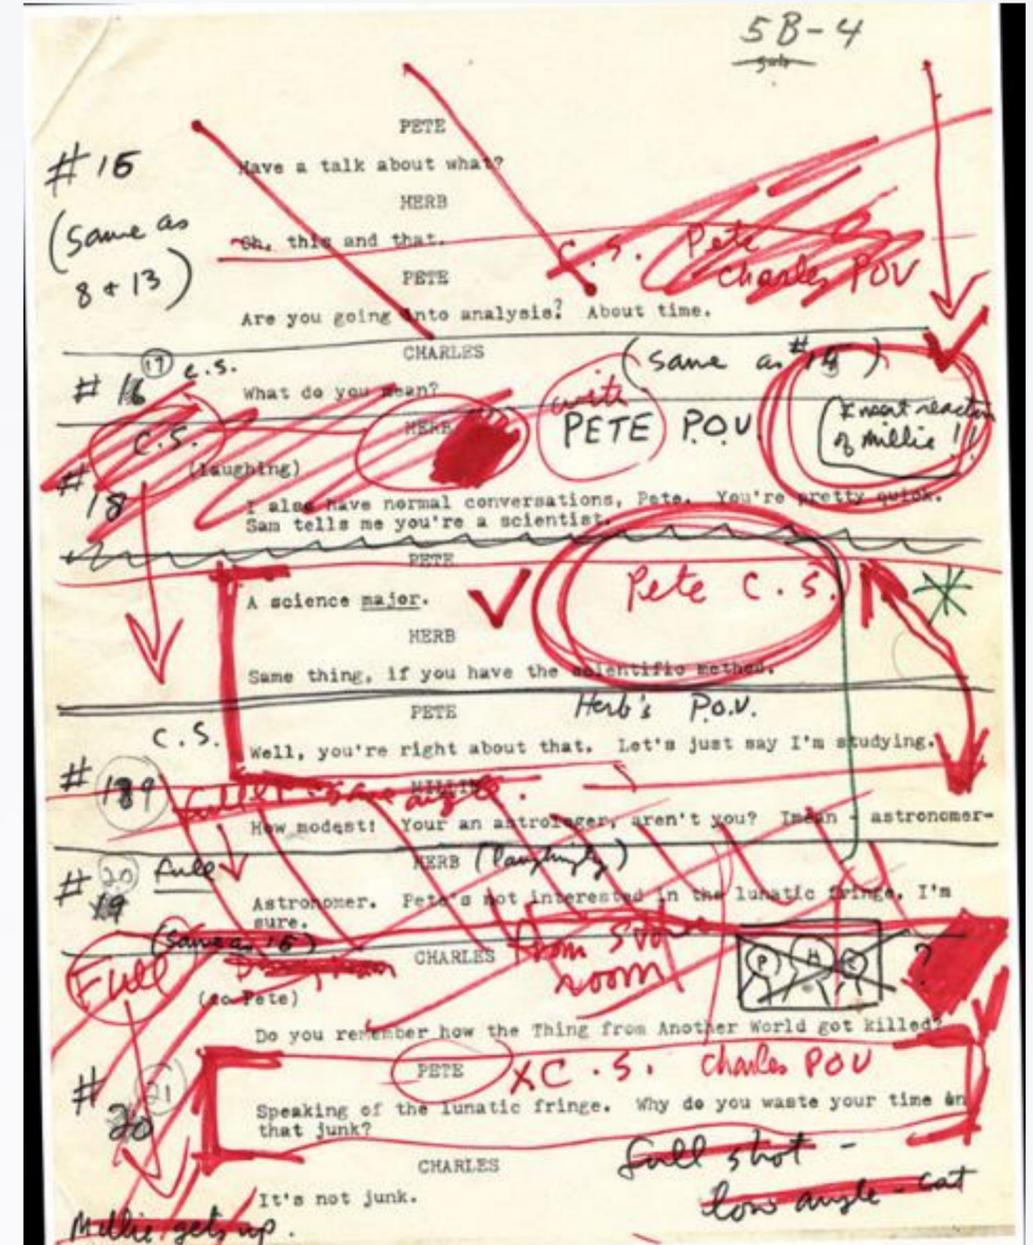

▶ DIGNITY AND RESPECT

- This is emphasized by your demeanor.
- Saying something like, “Well, sorry to have met like this, but I do need your driver’s license and...”

Creating Your Own ARC Script

- ▶ “I stopped you for speeding...”
- ▶ “My supervisor sent me to this location to reduce accidents”
(Trustworthy motives, Neutrality)
- ▶ “Speeding is one of the major causes of accidents” (Trustworthy motives)
- ▶ “We asked the public what they thought we should focus on and they said speeding was an important issue” (Voice)
- ▶ “Sorry we had to meet like this, but I need your license and...”
(Dignity/Respect)
- ▶ Return visit – “My supervisors and the public expect me to write tickets for speeding so that everyone can use the roads safely, so I’ve written you a ticket for...” (Motives, Dignity/Respect, Neutrality)

- Development of script
- Peer review of script (open practice)
- Traffic stops with peers

Summary

- * Direct support for procedural justice training and implementation, especially for officer performance
- * Support is strongest in situations directly related to training
- * Citizens surveyed remain relatively positive in general assessments of police, but ambivalent about intent.
- * Partial support for PJ postulate of process versus outcome

Limitations

- * Lacks true experimental design elements
- * Near exclusion of underrepresented groups
- * Lack of non-urban cultural measures and comparative studies
- * Lack of direct causal effect measures on citizen behavior

IMPLICATIONS: FOCUS GROUPS

- * Involves community and potentially builds trust
- * Reveals voices often masked
- * "...represents the heart of what some have called community-led policing"

IMPLICATIONS: SCRIPT BUILDING

- * Involves officers in proactive communication with community
- * Can be incorporated into any police initiative

The Vision

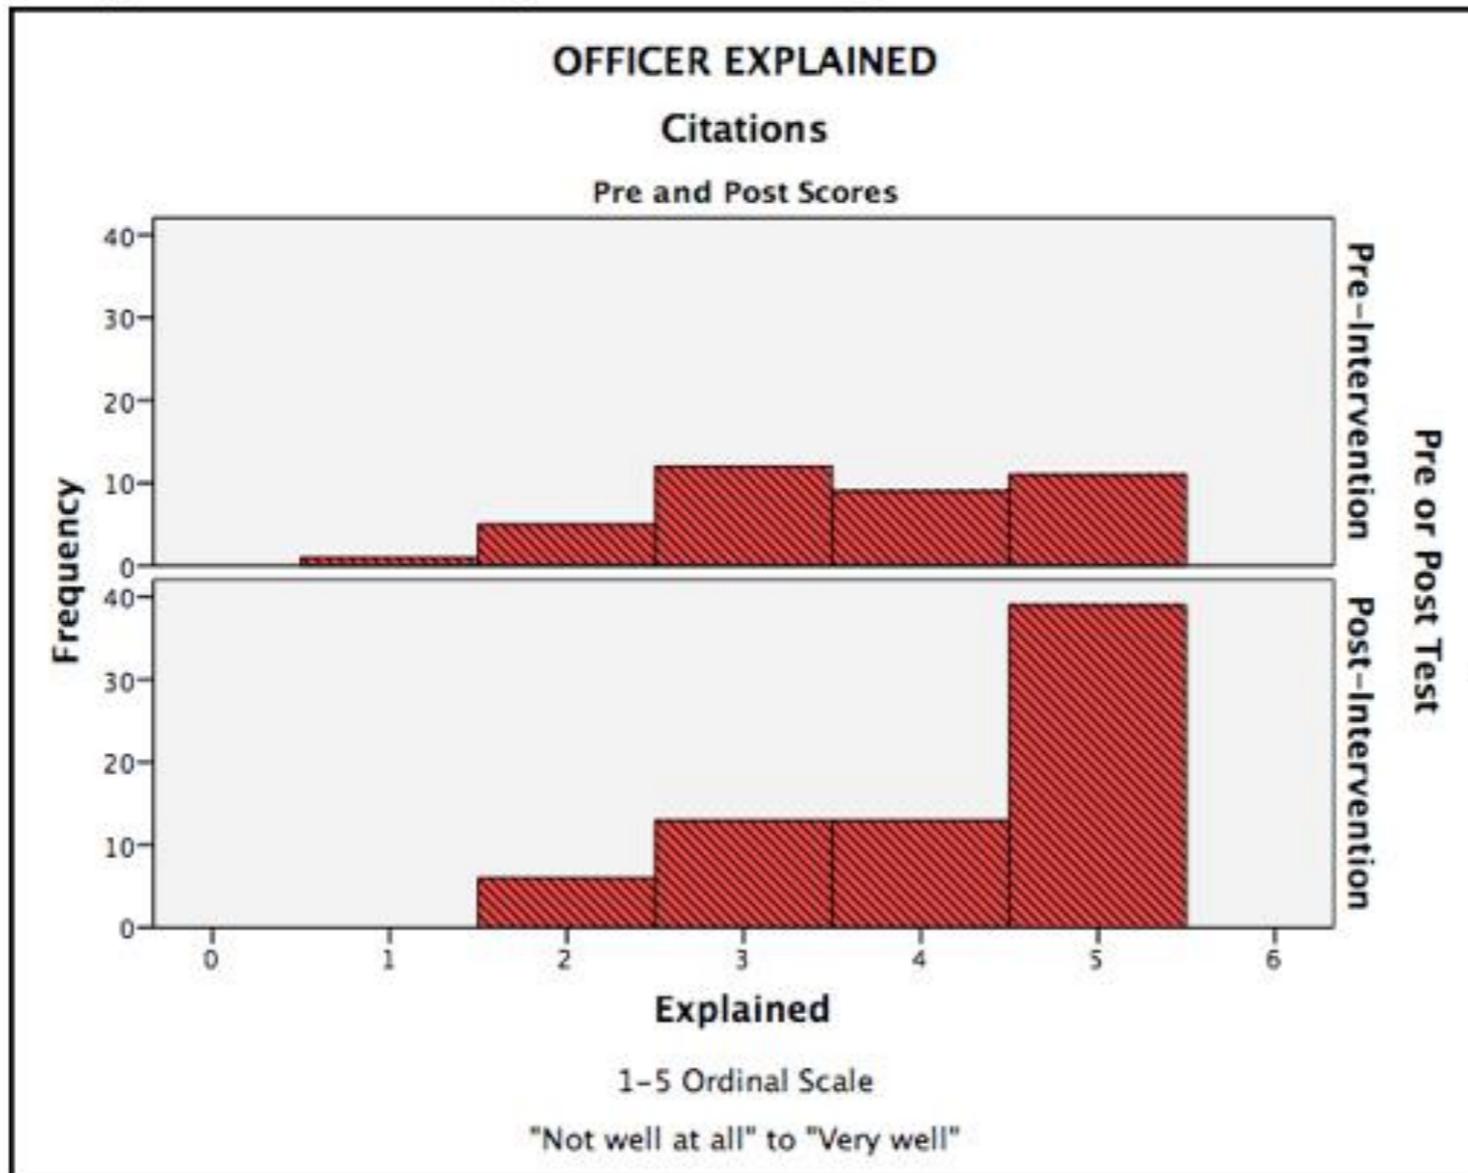

- * Citizens working with the police to determine how their community is to be policed, and officers creating ways to convey this message to those they encounter
